Business and Corporate Law

Business and corporate law becomes increasingly more complex every day. Starting or maintaining a business requires expert legal counsel to assist in organizing, planning and executing a business plan. Our team approach permits us to bring various talents and specializations together for the benefit of our clients.

Our capabilities in business and corporate law include:

- Structuring corporations, limited liability companies and other business entities to maximize applicable legal and tax benefits
- International law and global business including operations by both domestic US companies in other countries and foreign companies in the US
- Mergers, acquisitions and reorganizations
- Drafting and interpreting contracts and other business agreements
- Drafting and negotiating government contracts
- Business incentive programs such as tax abatement and bond financing
- Retirement planning to maximize tax benefits and meet financial goals
- Compliance, planning and offerings under federal and state securities laws and regulations
- Negotiations with financial institutions and other creditors
- Creditor rights
- Loan workouts – for both creditors and borrowers
- Resolving troubled business situations
- Advising non-profit organizations
- Technology protection, licensing and litigation
- Copyright and trademark registrations, licensing and litigation
- Intellectual property and Internet matters
- Software development and licensing
- Succession planning
- A wide variety of other business situations, including executive compensation and estate planning, corporate finance and bank negotiations
